

HAND HYGIENE GUIDE FOR INDUSTRIAL ENVIRONMENTS

Protecting the hardest working hands

Employees in industrial environments handle chemicals, soils and stains that can affect the health of their skin. This is especially common in manufacturing, construction, printing, refining and automotive facilities. Prepare and protect workers with industrial hand care products from Kutol® Pro.

EMPLOYEE SKIN HEALTH

Up to 40 percent of industrial workers will suffer from occupational dermatitis at some point in their working lives¹. Occupational dermatitis is a skin condition caused by the repeated handling of solvents, chemicals, irritants or allergens.

Symptoms most often affect the hands and include:

- ▶ Inflammation
- ▶ Itching
- ▶ Burning
- ▶ Redness
- ▶ Flaking
- ▶ Cracking

With an estimated cost exceeding $1 billion every year, occupational dermatitis is one of the most prevalent industrial skin diseases in the United States according to the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health.

REDUCING THE RISK

Implementing a hand care program with Kutol Pro hand cleaners, soaps and creams can help keep employees' skin healthy and reduce the risk of occupational dermatitis. Select the most effective product based on the type of soil.

BEST PRACTICES FOR HEALTHY HANDS

STEP 1

PREPARE

Before work

Using a hand cream can help repel soils and make it easier to wash dirty hands throughout the day.

STEP 2

CLEAN

During work

Heavy duty cleaners or hand wipes scrub away tough stains while maintaining skin health.

STEP 3

RESTORE

After work

Soothe and restore hands after a day of hard work by using a moisturizing hand cream.

Kutol Pro products are available in wall mount, portable and bulk dispensing systems. For full facility coverage in both front and back of house, Health Guard® by Kutol offers general purpose hand soaps and sanitizers as well as specialty skin care products.
